

The Sporting Consultancy

Terms of Business

The Sporting Consultancy strives to ensure its clients are valued, well represented and respected. Transparency and integrity are at the heart of the Consultancy's core values. To that end, full terms and conditions will be provided upon appointment.

Confidentiality

The Consultancy will deem confidential all information provided by you unless required by law.

Our Appointment

The Consultancy will act as your exclusive agent for the services outlined in the engagement letter or email. No other third party may be appointed, and no other third party including you may carry out or execute the agreed services.

Prior to accepting any funds, the Consultancy is obliged by law to undertake due diligence with regards to confirming your identity or any third party's, as well as the origin of wealth, to protect against any risk of money laundering.

Commission and Payment

Payment for the Consultancy's commission, charges, expenses and any other invoices are due in full and within 14 days of the original invoice or within 5 days prior to the agreed date of sale for buyers. All sums are payable in GBP and inclusive of VAT if applicable.

The Consultancy reserves the right to share its commission with third parties, subject to notifying you in advance where required by law.

Care, Delivery and Insurance of the Piece

The seller will remain responsible for holding and storing the piece offered for sale at its own risk. The seller will insure the piece with a comprehensive cover on a wall to wall basis for a minimum sum equal to the sale price at its own cost.

Subject to the terms of the contract of sale, the seller or the buyer will be responsible for all costs of packing, handling, shipping, delivering, installation, insurance, tax, duties for the delivery of the piece to the buyer or back to the seller.

The Consultancy reserves the right to request a copy of the insurance policy and certificate of insurance. The Consultancy will arrange separate insurance cover to meet the full terms outlined in its terms of business and revert the charges to the responsible party if the requested documents fail to be provided or do not comply with its full terms of business.

Extent of our Liability

The Consultancy will not be liable to you for the estimate of the piece or the content (including any references from third parties) of the report prepared for the piece; both are only an expression of the Consultancy's opinion.

The Consultancy will not be liable to you for any shotgun, rifle or firearm, bought or sold, unless the item is found to be out of proof or not legally obtained.

In the case of the purchase of any shotgun, rifle or firearm, the buyer is solely responsible for satisfying himself on all aspects as to the suitability and appropriateness of the gun including, but not only, its intended purpose, its quality and its condition.

You agree to indemnify the Consultancy against all claims, proceedings, liabilities, costs, expenses and loss from the Consultancy's actions under this agreement, including any contract of sale and any other documents entered into your behalf.

Termination

Your appointment of the Consultancy terminates when all services are completed, the sale of the piece and any associated services are also completed, or when either party gives the other 90 days written notice.

Any breach of this agreement by either party will immediately terminate this appointment upon receipt of written notice.

Our Ceasing to Buy or Sell

The Consultancy reserves the right to end this agreement or to refuse to buy or sell any piece if it believes any agreements, contracts or laws are being breached; or if it believes it is not being dealt in good faith.

The Consultancy will notify you in writing as soon as possible and all costs and expenses will be due on demand.

General

English Law shall apply to all disputes.
